TERSELY TOLD.

John B. Vaughn, of Century, was in the city yesterday circulating among his many friends.

J. M. Pfeiffer is still confined to his home with an attack of rheumatism.

J. R. Keeling, one of the quarantine guards stationed at Crestview, has returned home, having been relieved of duty there.

Hon. C. L. Shine, who has been spending several months in Tallahassee with relatives, has returned to the city and resumed his law practice.

Mobile Register: Mrs. Marietta Pournier returned home yesterday after a visit of several months to her sister, Mrs. Thornton, in Pensacola.

Mrs. W. N. Williams who has been visiting her sister Mrs. J. C. Connor, left yesterday for Roberts, where she will visit with her parents after which she will return to her home in Pine Barren.

The many friends of C. W. Pfeiffer will regret to learn that he is suffering from an attack of typhoid fever. At last reports he was doing as well as could be expected.

Chippley Banner: Bass & Co., who have had their office here since the outbreak of yellow fever at Pensacola, packed up their office paraphernalia and returned to Pensacola Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Stillman left last night for Baywood, La., where they will spend the next two weeks with friends and relatives. Mr. Stillman is off on his annual leave of absence from the custom house.

Man, who "wants but little here below," ought to get that little before it depreciates in value too greatly. You can get yours with deferred dividends, by going after it in the "want ad" way.

Joseph Santo, familiarly known as "Popular Joe," is to sever his connection with White's restaurant and ice cream saloon tonight. He has been in that business for the past seven years and many will miss his cheery smile and good-natured raillery about the place. He will be succeeded by W. L. Johnson, who served as night clerk at the Merchants for some time and who has many friends in the city.

There is a deliciousness to the "Blue Ribbon Flavor" that delights the most fastidious. Just try Blue Ribbon Lemon and Vanilla extracts.

OYSTER DEPOT. The Pensacola Oyster Depot, will be run in the future by the original proprietor—Frank Sigari. The business was sold to Ernest Spencer a few days ago, but was bought back again yesterday by Mr. Sigari. He will continue to furnish fresh oysters to his old patrons. See ad elsewhere in this paper.

MILLVIEW

Special to The Journal.

Millview, Nov. 17.—Miss Myrtle Norman returned to her home in Pensacola last Wednesday, after spending the summer on Perdido Bay, at Mr. Norman's summer home.

We had a good frost here Sunday morning.

Mr. Walter Briggs returned to Pensacola Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lewis gave a little party at their home Monday night and all present spent a most enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Walter Norman and children returned home yesterday from their summer home on Perdido Bay.

Mrs. Carrie Crona and little son Frank, and Mr. Frank Suarez returned home Monday. They have spent the time while fever was in the city, with Mr. Aubrey Suarez on Perdido Bay.

Mr. C. M. Larkin visited relatives in Muscogee last week.

Mr. Jack Malone and Mr. Archie Campbell were visitors in Millview Wednesday.

We had the pleasure of meeting Miss Bessie Williams, of Pensacola last evening. Miss Williams is teaching the Bellview school.

Mr. Reager and Mr. C. F. Lewis were visitors in Millview yesterday.

Miss Lella Lewis of Bellview returned home Wednesday after a few days visit to relatives and friends here.

Everybody here wants to see the quarantine removed. All are anxious to visit Pensacola again.

Mr. L. O. McPherson's launch came up to the wharf yesterday for the first time since yellow fever was reported in Pensacola. The quarantine has kept all boats away as well as closed all other routes of travel.

Our singing club met with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Davis Tuesday evening. One of the members could not attend on account of being a little lame from a fall.

We are very sorry to hear last night that Miss Flossie Boone was quite sick but have learned that she is better this morning.

Mr. Brian, who is employed as engineer at the mill here has his wife with him now. They are boarding at Mr. Whelan's.

Mr. Oscar Walker is on the sick list this week but we hope to see him out soon.

The Natural Effect.

Father.—From my observation of him last night I came to the conclusion that young man of yours was rather wild. Daughter.—Of course. It was your constant observation that made him wild. He wanted you to go upstairs and leave us alone.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Doubled.

Mabel.—Is she as happy as when she lived with her husband. Molly.—Twice as happy. He used to allow her only $3 a week, and now he has to pay her $15 a week alimony.—Kansas City Independent.

You can get a very good idea of "natural selection" in its practical workings by viewing a celery glass after it has been once round the table.

Disgraced Blessing.

Sermons.—Heapeck told me that he regarded the toothache as one of the greatest of temporal blessings. Bazaar.—What an incomprehensible idea! Sermons.—Yes, he said it made him forget his other troubles.

Ballooningists say that birds' flight is limited to 1,315 feet above the surface of the earth.

MASKED.

An Enemy Masquerades as Friend.

It seemed almost incredible to the lady who writes from Clintonville, Conn., that coffee caused the physical ailments from which she had so long suffered.

In such cases the real cause is often the one least suspected, and one is loth to believe that the mask of friendship has hidden the face of a relentless foe.

"I had suffered much for years from nervous troubles which finally so affected me that my whole system was run down. I grew pale and emaciated and practically gave up domestic duties. The doctor did his best for me, but after 2 years faithful ministrations was compelled to admit that he had done me no good. I almost despaired of ever being any better.

"September, 1903, will never be forgotten by me, for it was in that month that my emancipation, accomplished through the use of Postum Food Coffee after I had entirely quit the old kind, commenced. I shall always remember the date with gratitude.

"My improvement was a cause of wonder—almost incredulous rejoicing, to not only myself but my friends as well, so rapid and so great was it. I positively feared it would not last. My nerves quieted down and became steady and firm, the old headaches that used to follow any extra exertion ceased to trouble me, my weight increased and soon became greater than ever before, my mental powers grew more active and accurate, and the fresh glow came back to my cheeks, renewing the complexion of healthy girlhood.

"I cannot tell you how glad I am at the splendid change that Postum wrought in my condition, nor how I prize it for the good it continues to do me. We were out of it a week or so not long ago and used the old kind of coffee instead for several days. All my bad symptoms began to return to trouble me, and it seemed like an old friend back again, when I found the cup of Postum once more smoking and fragrant on the board. It is food and drink to me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

BRENT

Special to The Journal.

Brent, Nov. 17.—We are all very glad that the fever is about gone, as most everyone is anxious to go to the city once more.

School started here Wednesday. Miss Julia Jordan being the teacher. The children all seem to be much pleased with their teacher.

There were many glad hearts Sunday morning when the people arose and found that "Jack Frost" had visited us.

Quite a crowd attended prayer meeting Sunday night at the residence of Mr. L. N. Herrington. After the meeting the time was passed away in singing and conversing.

The many friends of Mrs. Laura Berry will be glad to learn that she has about recovered from a long illness.

A pleasant evening was enjoyed Wednesday by a number of friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Allen, music and dinn playing being indulged in. Mr. Blanchard was the violinist and was accompanied by Miss Annie Allen on the organ.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. P. Blanchard, Mrs. T. F. West and two children, Earle and Johnny, Mr. E. L. Allen, Mr. James Adams, Mr. Thomas Newell, Miss Susie Berry and Miss Vilma Adams.

The many friends of Mr. Mac Flowers in this vicinity were very sorry indeed to hear of his death. We extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

Sheriff Van Golt and family returned to town Wednesday, after spending the last two months here.

Prof. Allen came home Friday afternoon after being at Molino for the last two months teaching school. He returned Sunday.

Miss Jennie Newell returned last week from Chicago, where she has been for the last year, visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. W. F. Mayo, who has been living here with Mrs. Jim Creary, since the fever broke out has returned to her home at Goulding.

The farmers are grinding cane now.

There will be prayer meeting at Herrington's again Sunday night. Everyone is invited.

Bears One Crop and Dies.

The sago palm tree bears but one crop of fruit. Its load of nuts is its first and final effort in the way of fruit bearing. The nuts become ripe and are strewn in thousands around the tree until the great stem stands up by itself, empty and bare. The branches turn brown and drop one by one to the ground. Inside the trunk the work of decay is going on until what at one time was a mass of white sago and pith becomes nothing but a collection of rotten brown fibers. One day the trade wind blows more strongly than usual, and the leafless column of the trunk falls with a crash, destroying in its fall many of the young palms that are already springing from the nuts scattered some months before.

The Sibylline Books.

It is recorded of Tarquin the Proud, seventh emperor of Rome, that an old woman came to him with nine books, which contained, she said, sacred oracles. She asked an enormous price for them, and when the emperor refused to pay, she threw three more into the fire and still asked the same price for the three remaining. This so astonished the emperor that he bought the three at the price for which in the first instance he might have had the nine. These were the Sibylline books, and their contents were long looked upon by the Romans as divine oracles.

Ants as Bitters.

Ants are terrible fighters. They have very powerful jaws, considering the size of their bodies, and therefore their method is by biting. They will bite one another and hold on with a wonderful grip of the jaws, even after all of their legs have been bitten off by other ants. Sometimes six or eight ants will be clinging with a death hold to one another, making a peculiar spectacle, some with a leg gone and some with half the body gone. One singular fact is that the grip of an ant's jaw is retained even after the body has been bitten off and nothing but the head remains.

A Carious Will.

By the terms of the will of one Dr. Wilde of St. Ives parish, Huntingdonshire, England, his trustees were directed to spend £50 in the purchase of a piece of land in St. Ives, the annual rent of which was to be set aside for the purchase of six Bibles at a cost of 7 shillings each. To decide who shall have them he requested his trustees to "prepare a saucer with three dice upon the altar table of the parish church and let the Bibles be raffled for."

The Wrong Man.

Fair Visitor.—Here, my poor man, are some roses for you. What can I do to make you comfortable? Prisoner.—Guess you're makin' a mistake, lady. Fair Visitor.—Mistake? How? Prisoner.—I'm only here for porch climbing. You'll find the guy that killed his wife in the 'ner' cell.—Cleveland Leader.

Thoughtfulness.

She.—Now wasn't it thoughtful of me to go out early and gather those flowers for the breakfast table? He.—(Sighing) Yes—fine! Where's the coffee? She.—Oh, but I can't think of everything. (Sighing) Can I?—Life.

MYRTLE GROVE

Special to The Journal.

Myrtle Grove, Nov. 17.—A merry party of pleasure seekers left Myrtle Grove Monday morning for a place known as Brents Ditch on Perdido Bay and there enjoyed themselves till Friday when they returned home having had a delightful time fishing, hunting and boat riding. Those in the party were: Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Miller and children, Miss Alva, Vivian, Audrey, Myron, Glaesys and baby, Mr. and Mrs. John McNair, Mrs. M. A. Dickerson and Mr. Willie M. Shiver.

There were fish and game in abundance. Mrs. McNair caught a red fish that weighed about ten pounds and Miss Vivian Miller caught a trout weighing 8 or 10 pounds. Miss Alva also captured a fine trout.

The party visited the Gulf beach Thursday morning, going in Mr. Dickson's boat, the Lighter Knot, as far down the bay as possible and then walking over to the Gulf beach, a distance of about half a mile.

The Exact Thing Required for Constipation.

"As a certain purgative and stomach purified, Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets seem to be the exact thing required, strong enough for the most robust, yet mild enough and safe for children and without that terrible griping so common to most purgatives," says R. S. Webster & Co., Udon, Ontario, Canada. For sale by all druggists.

Pushing the Old Folks Aside.

When the babies are cross and a man would like a quiet retreat there is none for him. But in a few years, when the children are grown and he is in the way, the daughters and mother put their hands together and originate a den. There is no den for the mother because she gracefully eliminates herself by sitting in the kitchen or running over to a neighbor's. It is her natural disposition to hide in a corner or remove herself entirely, and it is not the natural disposition of the father; hence the den. It has a couch and some pipes and tobacco and the books which the neighbors haven't got around to borrowing as yet, though if father begins a story today the book will be found to be loaned out when he wants to finish it tomorrow. The den is a fashionable way of pushing the old man out. If there is one in your house, Mr. Man, don't be deceived.—Aitchison Globe.

Amusements

Last Night's Play.

Effie Eliser, in "Hazel Kirke," was the bill last night at the Pensacola theatre.

If the play had not been one that nearly every school boy knows by heart, there would have been no way of telling what was being played, as there were no programmes given out.

Of course, the newspapers and the billboards had advertised the attraction as "Hazel Kirke," and those who had never seen the piece before took it for granted that it was "Hazel Kirke."

Many, many years ago, "Hazel Kirke" was considered a great play, and it was really made famous by Effie Eliser, but the play has been produced so many times all over the country by 10, 20 and 30 cent companies, that it would necessitate a better company than last night's to make it interesting even to the most glib person on earth.

A large portion of the very few who were present doubted very seriously that it was really Effie Eliser who played the leading part in the venerable play, and if, indeed, it was Effie Eliser should retire from theatrical life before she ruins forever the excellent reputation which she has gained in former years for last night's performance would not have done justice to an ordinary popular priced production, notwithstanding the fact that fancy prices were charged at the box office.

The audience was small, very small, and the few who witnessed the play were cold, and unappreciative.

No announcement has yet been made as to the date of the next attraction, but it is hoped by the regular patrons, that at least a programme will be furnished at the next performance.

THE MUSSULMAN.

His Devotion Is Intense and He Is Proud of His Religion.

A traveler in Africa writes: "This is a land of religion. The Mussulman's devotion is intense, ever present and all pervading, being not an accessory tacked on, as it were, to his life to be practiced more or less surreptitiously, but an essential part, wherewith and wherein he lives at all times. A Mussulman prays openly and publicly, in no wise afraid to be seen. Every man wears his string of beads whereon he records the number of his daily prayers. Notwithstanding its, to us, uninviting appearance, the religion has made and still is making great strides in Africa, and one can only attribute this to the fact that here at last is a religion of which its adherents are in no way ashamed. It offers to the faithful absolute assurance of salvation and engenders that blind, unhesitating faith therein which is so comforting to the native mind.

"Seeing a crowd of pilgrims bound for Mecca patiently—nay, with pleasure—enduring the worst treatment that one could imagine meted out to herds of driven slaves, one evinces the excess of faith that can engender such a disposition. Though robbed, slain, starved, herded with pestilence and subjected to countless hardships and annoyances, yet year after year they come from far and near thousands and tens of thousands strong on this the most wonderful and far reaching of latter day pilgrimages.

"At Jedda one sees pilgrims from all corners of the globe—Dutch subjects from Java, Chinese from Peking, shiploads from India and farther India, Russian subjects from all parts of the great empire, French subjects from Algiers, from Morocco, and dusky negroes who have trooped for months from the western shores of Africa. Through many lands and midst many tongues they come, all to meet at this thronged center of the maelstrom of the Mussulman faith."

Two Repulsive Pictures.

In the atelier of Adolph William Bouguereau, the great French painter, there hung two terrible pictures. One represented a man dying in the desert, with the frightful form of the angel of death descending upon him. The other depicted Dante and Virgil in hell watching one victim madly gnawing at the throat of another. The two pictures failed because of their horror. "If I had stuck to such subjects as those," the artist used to say, "I should have starved long ago." He found a market for the beautiful.

Pitiful.

"What does Biffins remind you of?" "I hate to tell." "Because it's a reflection on Biffins?" "No; on me." "I don't understand." "Well, I'll explain. Every time I see Biffins he reminds me of a little bill I've owed him for over a year."—London Tit-Bits.

Herb W. Edwards Injured.

Herb W. Edwards of Des Moines, Iowa, got a fall on an icy walk last winter, spraining his wrist and bruising his knees. "The next day," he says, "they were so sore and stiff I was afraid I would have to stay in bed. But I rubbed them well with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications all soreness had disappeared." For sale by all druggists.

Absolutely Pure

A GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR BAKING POWDER

It makes the most delicious and healthful hot breads, biscuit and cake

FREE FROM ALUM, LIME OR PHOSPHATIC ACID

Alum baking powders are unhealthful. Do not use them for raising food under any circumstances. So detrimental are alum baking powders considered, that in most foreign countries their sale is prohibited. In many States in this country the law compels alum powders to be branded to show that they contain this dangerous acid, while in the District of Columbia, Congress has prohibited the sale of all food that contains alum.

Alum baking powders are sold to consumers at from 10 cents a pound to 25 ounces for 25 cents, or 25 cents a pound, and when not branded may generally be distinguished by their price.

The Journal's Daily Fashion Feature

SMART AND SENSIBLE REEFER.

The reefer ever remains the style that the small miss of 6 to 10 prefers, for while wintry blasts demand the warm and long ulster, the small miss shows this successfully. The material quite naturally prefers the garment that less impedes her active movements. So for playtime wear the short coat is undoubtedly the best. Favor is divided this fall between the plain jerseys and covers and the smart mixed tweeds, such as are used in the overcoats for grown-ups. The reefer cut this season is shaped with something of a flare arranged in the under-arm seams. The illustration shows this successfully. The material used in the garment illustrated is a dark green kersey, velvet buttons and stitchings of silk affording the finish. Worn with this coat is a smart beaver hat in dark green rolled sailor shape caught up on the right with a rosette of crimson velvet through which is run a crimson quill.
